FRENCH TROOPS MAKE PROGRESS

Push Enemy Back in Center of Line Between Noyon and Montdidier.

TAKE 400 PRISONERS

Number of Cannon and Machine Guns Fall Into Hands of the French—Germans Advance at Only One Point and Cross the Matz River.

London, June 13.—In the fighting in the region between Montdidier and Noyon further gains have been made by the French troops, where in addition to the capture of territory near Belloy and St. Maur, the center of the line, 400 additional Germans have been made prisoner and some guns and machine guns have been captured.

Numerous German counter attacks have been repulsed, but the enemy succeeded at one point in crossing the Matz river.

On the eastern side of the Oise river the French have carried out a strategic retirement along the line of Belloy-Tracy-Le-Val and Nampcel, unobserved by the enemy.

In violent fighting between the Aisne river and the forest of Villers Cotterets the enemy made slight gains against the French.

French Evacuate Wood.

French forces operating on the east bank of the Oise river south of Noyon have evacuated the Carlepoint wood and the Germans are closely pressing them southward, according to the German official communication. The communication also asserts that the territory on the opposite side of the river, near where the Matz enters the stream, has been cleared of Allied troops.

Nowhere else along the battle front running from Montdidier to the region around Noyon is any claim made to further advances by the Germans. On the contrary the latest communication shows that the enemy everywhere has been busily engaged in attempts to hold back the French and other Allied troops, among them some Americans.

Ignore Allied Advance. No mention is made in the communication of the Allies having advanced their front east of Mery and the Ganlie wood or the repulse of violent German attack along the Aisne river and the Loges farm and Anthendil. Neither is there any mention of the fact that the enemy, notwithstanding his numerous attempts has been unable to debouch south of the Matz river.

The communication asserts that all the counter attacks of the Allied forces have been repulsed and that they suffered heavy casualties. It declared that the number of prisoners taken by General von Hurter's army has now risen to more than 13,000.

It had been admitted that the position of the defending line on the west bank of the Oise river was a delicate one owing to the capture by the Germans of the outflanking hills to the west and a successful drive through the Carlepoint wood on the opposite side of the stream seemingly would have necessitated a strategic retreat if the troops were not to be entirely cut off.

London Hospitals for U. S. Navy. London, June 13.—The American navy is to have a hospital of its own at London. Mrs. Frederick Edward Guest, wife of Captain Guest, member of Parliament, has turned over to the American Red Cross her residence in Park Lane, known as Alford House. Mrs. Guest was formerly Amy Phipps, daughter of Henry Phipps of Pittsburg.

No Call Is Neglected. Paris, June 13.—In its report for May the military affairs department of the American Red Cross says that "no call which has been made upon us nor any need which has come to our attention has been neglected." On Memorial day, May 30, two new American Red Cross hospitals were opened. One had 200 patients on May 30. It is now running to its capacity limit of 600. The other has 350 beds and all Americans in a certain sector will pass through it on the way to American base hospitals.

REAR ADMIRAL RODMAN

In charge of U. S. battleships now in foreign waters.

In case the persistent rumors come true that Germany is planning to support its land offensive by sending its high seas forces against the combined British and American grand fleet, the American naval forces will play an important part. American dreadnaughts under Rear Admiral Hugh Rodman joined the British fleet some time ago and have been assigned a prominent place in the line.

Bolsheviki Have No Foreign Policy

BY JOSEPH SHAPLIN.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) Stockholm, June 13.—The Russian Bolsheviki have no foreign policy, but are simply ostrich-like in their naive faith that Germany will soon be undermined by revolution. The Bolsheviki are constantly protesting to Germany against the violation of the Brest Litovsk peace treaty. The Bolsheviki declare they are in no imminent danger yet. Petrograd newspapers are suppressed for commenting upon the proposed German occupation of Petrograd.

Quiet on Sector Held by Americans

BY FRED S. FERGUSON.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) With the Americans West of Montdidier, June 13.—A comparative lull has settled along this sector again, opposing artilleries maintaining only normal fire. German prisoners report heavy German losses, but German divisions opposing us are unchanged. A rare case of boche humanity is reported last night. An American lieutenant raided a German trench, leading one German prisoner back to the American lines, across no man's land when hit by a shell. A boche dressed his wound, then carried him into the American trench.

Washington, June 13.—That the war department will ask changes in the draft law to include all men between the ages of 18 to 45 or 49 years is forecasted in congressional circles. New legislation planned to facilitate the operation of inter-allied draft treaties. It is expected to be launched in the December session. The need for this is the fact that class one will probably be depleted this year.

Internal Situation in Austria Bad

BY JOSEPH SHAPLIN.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) Stockholm, June 13.—The staff correspondent of the Vienna Arbeiter Zeitung here says the food situation in Austria is again very serious. He said the food situation in Austria is always worse than in Germany. The Austrian government under pressure of the January strikes gave the working men many food promises. None of these has ever been fulfilled. Even promised food from Ukraine, which is improbable. The daily bread ration has again been reduced. Butter costs $4 a pound. Vienna gets less than 35 per cent normal food rations. The mayor recently demanded the government act immediately to prevent serious difficulties. The political situation is also serious on account of the publication of Emperor Carl's letters. The reichstag has been prorogued indefinitely.

NEARS MILLION MARK

Secretary Baker Says Army in France is Growing.

War Department Head Addresses West Point Graduates and Awards Diplomas.

West Point, N. Y., June 13.—Secretary Baker, in an address to 137 graduates of the United States military academy here, declared more than 1,000,000 men will be in service in France in the near future.

Supplementing his recent announcement in Washington that United States troops "exceeding 700,000 in number" have disembarked on French soil, the Secretary told the cadets "it is not unfair to speculate that we will shortly pass the million mark."

General Peyton C. March, chief of staff, who made Commencement day the occasion of his first official visit to the academy, said that neither the menace of raiding German submarines off the Atlantic coast nor the territorial gains of the enemy on the Western front will affect America's policy of sending men to France as fast as ships can carry them.

Secretary Baker, who awarded the diplomas to the graduates, told them they were destined to have a part in leading the armies of the nation to a "victorious peace."

"After that," he said, "as officers of the regular army you will prepare not for war, but to be ready for another war if anybody wants to make it."

NEGROE PROWLER IS KILLED

Wife of Army Officer Shoots Burglar in Her Home.

Minneapolis, June 13.—Roused from her sleep by a noise downstairs, Mrs. Nell Dugan, 1731 Princeton avenue, Midway, prominent young society woman, crept down the stairs and firing into the dining room from the landing shot and killed a prowler.

Her husband, Irvine Dugan, former Great Northern railroad official, is now in the United States army, having been assigned a first lieutenancy in the railroad engineering corps. He is stationed at Camp Terry, Ohio.

After emptying the revolver and seeing that the bullets had taken effect, Mrs. Dugan went to the telephone and called the Prior avenue police. When the police arrived it was found that the victim was a negro. He was later identified by the police as John Watson.

SENATE KILLS TREATY MOVE

Upper Body Votes Down Borah Proposal For Open Discussion of Documents.

PRESIDENT OBJECTED

Executive Disapproval Responsible For Defeat of Amendment—Wilson Explains Attitude in Letter to Lansing.

Washington, June 13.—A proposal in the senate for open discussion of treaties has been killed by President Wilson's disapproval.

Senators voted down 50 to 23 an amendment by Senator W. E. Borah of Idaho, embodying the proposal which had been offered as an amendment to the resolution of Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, curtailing senate debate during the war.

Open Diplomacy Defined.

The president made it known that his advocacy of open diplomacy was not in reference to the senate executive discussion of treaties, in which he recommends no change, but meant the publication of treaties after their ratification, in a letter to Secretary of State Robert Lansing, which was read by Senator G. M. Hitchcock.

The main point at issue in debate has been just what the president meant when he spoke of "open covenants, openly arrived at." The president's attitude, Hitchcock intimated, extends to the treaty of peace which will conclude the present war. He does not intend to urge open sessions of the peace conference, but only that all nations signing the treaty shall fully inform their people of its terms after it has been decided upon.

Peace Conference Included.

The president's letter follows:

"My dear Mr. Secretary: 'I wish you would be kind enough to formulate a careful and conclusive memorandum for the use of the committee of the senate with regard to the enclosed resolution, I take it for granted that you feel as I do that this is not time to act as the resolution prescribes, and certainly when I pronounced for open diplomacy, I meant not that there should be no private discussion of delicate matters but that no secret agreements should be entered into and that all international relations when fixed should be open, above board and explicit.'"

FAVORS MUNITIONS COUNCIL

War Cabinet Discusses Plan for Pooling Allied Resources.

Washington, June 13.—Pooling of all economic resources of America and the nations allied against the Teuton powers was a step nearer after the weekly meeting of the President's war cabinet.

One of the moves planned is the creation of a munitions council with headquarters at one of the Allied capitals.

This was laid before President Wilson at the session.

Under a plan outlined the Munitions council would be divided into two parts, food and war material. On the former would sit representatives of the food ministries of the Allies and a representative of Food Administrator Hoover. On the latter Allied munitions heads would sit with a representative of the war industries.

"Herbert," said Mrs. Pudge, when the ten things were cleared away, "I was thinking about that costume I wore the winter before last."

"Yes, dear," replied Pudge, apprehensively.

"I decided that I could turn it and make a really nice dress of it. The one I've been wearing is dreadfully shabby, you know."

"Turn. Of course, it would turn,
dear," agreed Pudge, with some enthusiasm. "You're such a clever little needlewoman. No, I am not flattering. And, as you say, your other dress is a trifle on the down grade. Why, we'll be able to save money at least by that notion."

Mrs. Pudge shook her head sadly and guiltily.

"There," she remarked, "your memory is just as bad as mine. I'd quite forgotten that I gave the dress to Cousin Lizzie this spring; so I'm afraid that saving scheme must wait. Isn't it a nuisance, Herbert?"

And Herbert gave the ottoman a savage kick and told the clever little woman to stop her chattering.

Origin of Scottish Festival.

The origin of "hogmanay," which used to be so dear to the youth of Scotland, ay, and to the auld folks, too, has given rise to endless discussion.
The following correspondence has appeared in the Scotsman as to the origin of the custom and the name:

"The derivation Hagle-mene, the holy moon, has been suggested, the period of which corresponded to our December. Some, with considerable plausibility, derive it from the Latin, Hoc in Anno, a persuasive to charity which reminded well-to-do patrons that the year had all but run its course, but that there was still time to relieve their needy supplicants. It is not improbable that the term is of Teutonic origin. It may be connected with Hægfrid, a name applied to Christmas and (or) other festivities. Hægfrid day would thus mean the lastfrid-day, or gladdest season of the year."

Lily's Rapid Growth.

The great water lily of the botanic gardens in London usually has a long season. In the spring it disappears beneath the water of its tank.
How the lily vanishes and is reproduced is explained by Mr. North, the curator. The thick root stock gradually rots away and the fruits, which are about the size of a baseball,
remain at the bottom of the tank.
They are fished up in the spring and the seeds are extracted. A single seed, though no larger than a pea, will in four months produce a plant that will cover an area of 1,000 feet. In its native district, the Amazon, the Victoria Regia is largely used by the natives as food. It grows on the lagoons and is perennial.

side of the Adriatic. In the pursuit which followed, an Austrian destroyer was badly damaged.

IF BACKACHE OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take a glass of Salts to flush out Kidneys—
Drink plenty water.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys,
they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.
When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly.
At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.
Eat less meat, drink lots of water;
also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Putting Plans into Effect

You have some cherished business plans which require the viewpoint, perhaps the financial support of a conservative and resourceful bank. This bank, in its past history, has assisted many business men and others, in putting worthy and well-conceived plans into effect. It adheres always to the policy of capitalizing no business enterprises; that is quite apart from the objects of a conservative bank.

Its officers are always glad of an opportunity to discuss the ways in which this bank can assist in carrying legitimate, well-matured business plans.

Miss Margaret Sheridan of St. Paul, under the auspices of Dr. Mabel Ulrich, State Supervisor of Social Hygiene Education, will address the council.

Mrs. W. H. Gemmell, chairman of the Sixth district, will give her message, relative to defense work, having lately returned from the Washington and Philadelphia conferences.

The council is ever eager to learn through the various sources brought to them the duties of an active, worth-while organization.

Visiting chairmen from out of town auxiliaries, have accepted invitations to be present. All delegates from Brainerd's various churches, lodges and societies are urged to be present.

At 8 P. M. Miss Shellund has visited Brainerd before in the capacity of former supervisor of state rural school. A general invitation is extended for the evening program as we feel only at rare intervals are we privileged to hear women who lead in the country's call for defense work.

Two Senators for Each State.

Congress consists of two senators from each state, the smallest state as well as the largest, and a number of representatives, according to population. The basis of representation, or number of inhabitants for a representative, is fixed by congress under each recurring census so as to secure adequate representation for every state without making the house too large and unwieldy. The Constitution of the United States, adopted in 1789, said the number of representatives should not exceed one for every 30,000 of population, and as no census had yet been taken, 30,000 was adopted as the ratio of representation and the population of the different states was estimated. By this process the first house of representatives consisted of 65 members. Since then congress has passed 13 apportionment acts, under 13 different censuses, changing the basis of representation every time except once.

In 1800 and in 1810 the ratio was fixed at one representative for 33,000 population. In 1820 the ratio was increased to 35,000, and it has been increased every tenth year since till it is now 211,877, while the membership of the house has increased from 65 to 435.

Loyal Americans Everywhere are Loaning Every Cent Possible to Their Country

"Who is to solicit me for War Savings Stamps. I want to make a pledge and no one has called upon me."

This was the query one of the workers received over the phone yesterday and is typical of the spirit of the way the drive is succeeding.

It fully illustrates the fact that not only the soldier at the front but those at home are determined to see this war through to a successful conclusion. The committee have had a few "intelligence" cards turned in showing that there are a few who do not appreciate the privilege of being a citizen of the U. S.—but they are very few.

Today was to have closed the drive but owing to some circumstances in some instances it will be continued until Saturday.

Those who do not pledge to the limit of their ability will find themselves in poor company—loyal Americans are loaning their Uncle Samuel every dollar they can.

Derivation of "Hellepont."

Hellepontus, (meaning the sea of Helle), is the ancient Latin name of the Strait of the Dardanelles, the long, narrow strait connecting the Aegean sea, or eastern part of the Mediterranean, with the Sea of Marmora. The English form of the Latin word Hellepontus is Hellepont. The name is derived from the story of Helle being drowned in the strait.

CONFERENCE CLOSES TO-NIGHT

Interdenominational Bible Conference Led by Dr. W. B. Riley in Rousing Closing Service

ATTENDANCE MUCH INCREASED

"Nature Has No Analogy to Resurrection," Said the Speaker Last Evening

The Interdenominational Bible Conference led by Dr. W. B. Riley will come to a close tonight. The closing services ought to surpass all the rest in interest and importance. "God's Antidote to Modern Skepticism" should be counted a theme of highest importance in days of such stress as these are in all regards. This is a favorite theme with the doctor, and will stand for a discourse of importance to the spreading of the gospel and the preparation for the great changes which are just ahead.

Interest and attendance have increased markedly since the opening in spite of counter attractions. No more engrossing or important themes have been discussed before Brainerd congregations in many months than those which Dr. Riley has brought home so forcefully in these meetings.

"The Resurrection of the Believer's Body," yesterday afternoon, following Dr. Pierce on "Christ and the Kingdom," was a means of spiritual enlightenment, comfort and edification. The thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians, from the thirty-fifth verse to the end of the chapter, was the scripture basis. Here are found, regarding the believer in life, death and resurrection glory. An illustration from nature, an identity to the individual, an image expressing that identity, an improvement to be consummated at the resurrection and a final immortality and glory.

While Paul uses an illustration, it is not an analogy. Nature has no analogy to resurrection. The vegetation of earth is not dead but in a comatose condition in winter. Spring is not resurrection, just awakening from sleep, also an illustration of death. The chrysalis is not dead. If it were no butterfly would come forth. Three cases of resurrection, when Christ brought back the dead to their former earthly plane, come the nearest of anything to an analogy of the resurrection.

Everybody and every person has an identity. Sin makes inroads on the body till the being is sometimes unrecognizable. That does not change the identity. In resurrection that identity will be perfectly preserved.

We bear the image of the earthly. We shall also bear the image of the heavenly. We resemble our natural parents. We bear their marks. We share their peculiarities good or bad. But we shall bear the image of the heavenly. Flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God. The Church is a body of people in the flesh. Flesh and blood can find forgiveness and identification with Christ. But in the kingdom which is coming that flesh shall no longer live by the blood, but by the Spirit which shall quicken it at the resurrection, even as Christ, whose blood was wholly shed through the rift of a broken heart and a spear-pierced side, lives not by blood, a natural life, but by the quickening Spirit, a spiritual life.

There will therefore be an improvement. Resurrection and attendant glorification will remove all the limitations of the carnal, all the wrinkles and spots of sin, but above all, the taint which is absolutely in the natural life till we no longer live a blood-sustained life but a Spirit-sustained life.

At the resurrection this corruptible shall put on incorruption, this mortal immortality. The corruptible, the dead, shall come up from their graves. The mortal, the living awaiting either death or glory, as God will, shall, with them be changed and all shall make up the one body of the redeemed, in whom redemption shall have now been consummated.

In the evening session the speaker brought home from the 21st chapter of Luke prophecies which have now become history. The recent fall of Jerusalem, he said, discussing "The Fall of Jerusalem and the Future of the Jews," would better have been heralded in the press as its rise, which, at the moment of its bloodless capture, really began.

Luke recorded the Savior's words that they should, at the Roman sacking of the city, "fall by the edge of the sword and be led captive among the nations, and Jerusalem be trodden down of the Gentiles till thefulness of the Gentiles be come in."

The Jews who have perished by the sword would have to be counted by the millions. Their captivity is measured by centuries, yes, millenniums. In Egypt, the wilderness, Babylon, and now in every corner of the globe, they have been captives,

At the Best Today

In filming "Molly Entangled," the latest Paramount production starring Vivian Martin, the company had the time of their lives and it is safe to say that there was more brogue and more Irish anecdotes scattered around the staid old studio than ever before in its existence. The bitter feud between the Barrys and the O'Maras was a continual source of amusement to the fun-loving actors.

Harrison Ford, Miss Martin's leading man, and the little star herself kept the company in gales of laughter. One of Miss Martin's stories was the following: she said the quarrel between the two families reminded her of the two Irishmen who lived side by side. One owned a peach tree which had a branch growing over into the neighbor's yard. The owner accused his neighbor of stealing the peaches but was sent scuttling back to his own yard by a well-directed shower of "Irish confetti" from the neighbor. Vowing to get even that night he climbed out onto the branch and sawed it completely off, falling and breaking both legs in the process! "Molly Entangled," a typical Irish production is to appear at the Best theatre tonight.

City Dweller and the Tin Can. "Here is an astonishing fact," writes Harry S. Stabler in Everybody's, "which the proper authorities will verify for you:

"Thirty per cent of the business of the wholesale grocers of the entire country is in canned goods. In the wholesale houses of New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and other large cities, foods make up 40 per cent of the business."

"The fact is that, if you were to take the tin cans out of any city of the first or second class, the inhabitants would begin to starve almost at once. That means, of course, that those cities could not have grown so large without food conserved in tins."

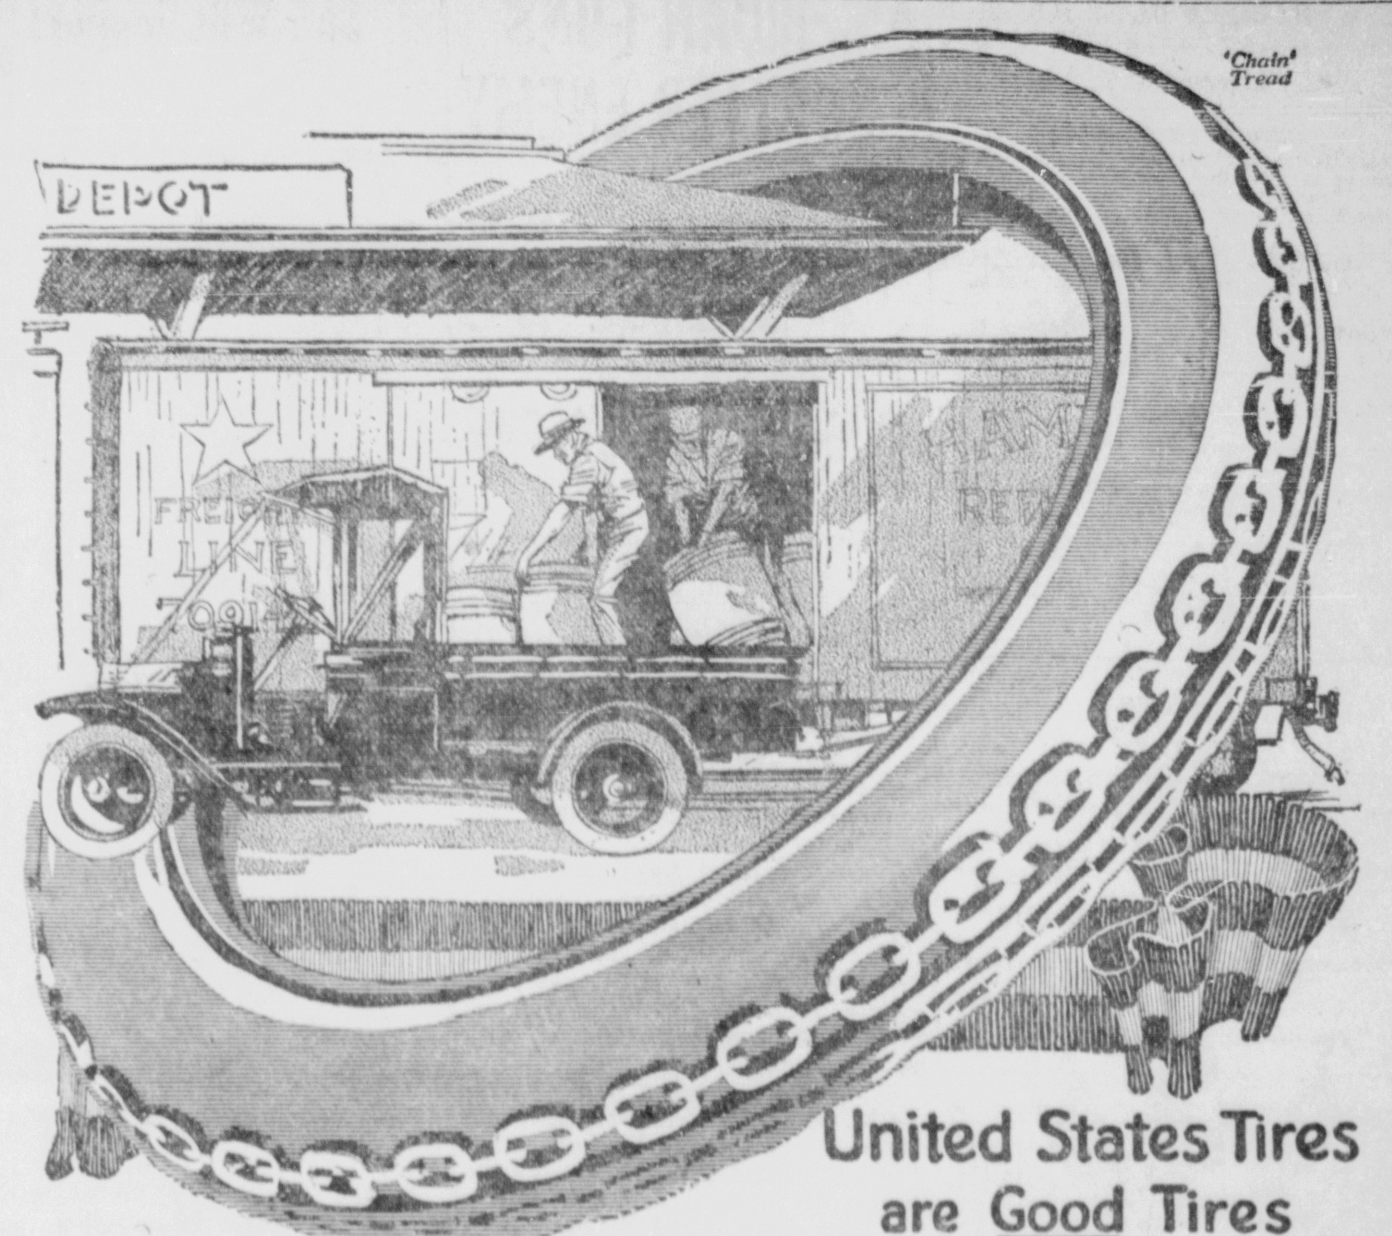

One-Man Pontoon.

Building bridges under fire, the greatest ordeal that the army engineers of other campaigns were subjected to, bids fair to go out of fashion. In future a regiment going across a stream will, if a recent invention meets with approval, merely wade into the stream and drift across, meantime utilizing both hands to manipulate his rifle.

The new invention is a sort of glorified "water wings" arrangement of inflated bladders, the fording of deep streams without the necessity of bridge building. The encircling buoy is blown up by the soldier. It holds him upright in the water with his shoulders and arms clear of the surface. In experiments recently conducted a man made several bull's-eyes on a target 300 yards away while floating across the stream.

exiles from their own soil. It is the miracle of the ages that they have not become as the nations, and yet now, after all that has come to pass, they are going back, ignorantly fulfilling these very prophecies of the scriptures to which their eyes are blinded.

The nations are pledged to their restoration nationally in case of an allied victory. They have laid up their millions to this end during the days when there was no apparent hope. And as prophecy has so accurately outlined their sufferings, so it accurately outlines the glory which awaits the chosen earthly people of God, as certainly as the word of God is true.

NIGHT AND DAY IN LONDON

Toilers Work Along Just the Same Through All Hours, Making Munitions of War.

The war seems to have done away with the difference between night and day. The period of rest and the period of exertion seem to have merged themselves into one long period. I look out on the river at two or three in the morning and it is as busy as the river at midday. Writes Grace Boynton Monks in the Outlook. Barges are being towed up and down and goods being shipped from the wharves. Huge vans rattle along the road beneath my window and the streets are as full of people at night as they are in the daytime.

At Woolwich arsenal there are two 12-hour shifts and as much work is done by night as by day. The other evening I motored from the Manorway gate of the arsenal to the entrance of the danger buildings and returned just as the night shift was going in to work. The chauffeur had to go at a snail's pace, blowing his horn continually. The broad roads which run between the buildings were crowded from side to side, swarming with workers, principally women. They had to crowd together at the side of the road to make room for the car to pass. These women were going in on a 12-hour night shift—some whose work would be purely mechanical, others who would have difficult operations to perform and many who worked in actual danger.

Those who were going to the buildings from which I had just come knew that unless they took the utmost care there was danger of an explosion, and had a night and a succession of nights and days to look forward to when they would be breathing in yellow powder in spite of veils and all the precautions the government can provide. I knew them by their yellow hair and faces. Occasionally a head in the vast mob of faces nodded to me or a hand waved, for I have many friends among them.

Y. M. C. A. Men Maimed.

Springfield, Mass., June 13.—George C. Hubert of Hartford, Conn., who was director of army Y. M. C. A. work at Fort Snelling last summer, dealt with the problem of how to aid returning soldiers, maimed, or maimed, to adjust themselves to civil life, at the conference of the Association of Employed Officers of the Young Men's Christian association of North America in session here. "Many of the boys who return will be maimed for life," declared Mr. Hubert.

Big Oil Supply.

Last year the United States produced 341,800,000 barrels of crude oil, approximately 68 per cent of the world's consumption. In 1916 its share was about 65 per cent. A large part of the fuel oil used by the British navy comes from Mexico. Last year Mexico produced 60,000,000 barrels, about 20,000,000 barrels over the output the year before. Russia in 1917 produced 70,000,000 barrels, a falling off of about 2,000,000 barrels from the 1916 production. In the Dutch East Indies 14,000,000 barrels were produced last year and 17,000,000 barrels the year before. Roumania in 1917 produced 11,000,000 barrels as compared with 10,000,000 the year previous. Most of the Roumanian oil fields are now under control of Germany.—The Pathfinder.

POUR IN DEADLY FIRE

Artillery Opens Up on Advancing Huns and Terrific Shell Fire Causes Awful Slaughter, the Attack Ending in Disastrous Failure.

London, June 13.—The advance of the Americans and French northwest of Chateau Thierry is proving a serious menace to the Germans, as was again exemplified in a most disastrous fashion for the foe.

Two divisions of fresh troops were thrown by the German command against the American center at the village of Buresches, near Belleau wood. A terrific fire was turned loose by the American artillery, and the German advance was broken up with heavy slaughter.

Reuter's correspondent, writing from the French headquarters, declares the Germans are "taking seriously" the American thrust at the apex of their line in the Clignon valley, and thus far have used five divisions in attempting to counter it, but entirely without success.

Referring to the enemy's fruitless effort to retake Buresches, the correspondent says: "Trusting to the deep woods northeast of the village, and the twisted spur of a hill to conceal them, the leading division advanced in mass formation."

Artillery Hits Mased Banks.

"They were observed, however, from the Bois de Belleau and were brought under a destructive hail of shrapnel before they could deploy. The fire was so severe that the attack was disorganized, and no progress could be made for some time. "When the Germans did succeed in penetrating the defense, they were met with such enthusiasm in cold steel that their only choice was death or surrender."

"In the capture of the wood to the northwest of Buresches, the Americans had to deal with machine gun nests, a mine at which they are becoming expert. Gun after gun was captured and turned upon its late possessors and the advance never was materially delayed."

OPPOSES BONE-DRY RIDERS

But President Has No Objection to Prohibition Bills.

Washington, June 13.—While not opposed to introduction of any separate prohibition legislation Senators may see fit to offer, President Wilson, it became known, is opposed to attaching any prohibition amendments to pending appropriation bills.

It was learned the President not only opposes the Randall amendment to the emergency agricultural bill, which would prevent the expenditure of about $6,000,000 until he prohibits use of foodstuffs for the manufacture of beer and wine, but also opposes the bone-dry prohibition provision which Senator Jones of Washington has introduced.

Senator Smith of South Carolina, acting chairman of the Agricultural Committee, has been asked to use his influence for elimination of all prohibition amendments.

Berlin Object to Czech Slovak Soldiers Joining Allies.

Amsterdam, June 13.—If the Czech-Slovak troops which fought in the Russian army are permitted to leave Russia with arms and join the Allied forces Russia will "endanger her dearly bought peace," says the Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung.

The number of these troops is estimated, the newspaper says, to be 150,000. These men for the most part went voluntarily over to Russia from the Austro-Hungarian army and are distributed over Northeastern Russia.

Eighty Per Cent of American Wounded Soon Back on Duty.

Washington, June 13.—Eighty per cent of the American troops wounded in battle are being cured and returned to their forces within three or four weeks, it was announced. It formerly required months of attention in military hospitals before they could return to the fighting.

Army surgeons are being instructed at the rate of 150 a month in latest treatment for wounded.

New Irish Volunteer Plan.

London, June 13.—The Dublin correspondent of the Daily Express proposes to be able to give the details of a plan for conducting a voluntary recruiting campaign in Ireland which he understands has as one of its greatest features the bringing of American regiments to Ireland to march through town and villages. This plan, continues the correspondent, will be carried out along lines resembling those of a general election under the direction of Edward Short, the Chief secretary for Ireland.

CESARE LOQUET EVELYN GREELEY, RENE VERNE CHASMYLTENTWOVE

Evelyn Greeley, well-known movie star of the World Film Corporation, has made an agreement to pay three Belgian soldiers $1,000 a year during the war. They are of the battalion who fought their way from Russia and recently came across the United States after landing in San Francisco. She does this because these soldiers receive now only 8 cents a day with their food and clothing. She thinks they are entitled to as much as the government pays American soldiers.

SEE NO MORAL LAW

Prussians Naturally Cruel—Civilization Has Bad Effect.

Code Provides That Success Justifies Any Means the State Would Choose to Employ.

Goethe said, "The Prussian is by nature cruel; civilization will make him ferocious." Goethe was prophetic—civilization, as far as it can affect the Prussian, has made him ferocious, and concept has rendered him invulnerable to reform, writes Augustus Thomas of the Vigilantes. Through scores of years congenial megalomania has been craftily fed and augmented by official and philosophical and literary and religious reiteration of German greatness until the idea has become national hypnosis.

This treatment has left the Prussian imagination with only a captive flexibility of the dachshund variety, so near the ground that it seems to have been born under a bureau. Present Prussianism cannot see with its arrested spiritual development that its Kaiser, as Emerson said of Napoleon is doomed to ultimate defeat, because he is fighting against the moral law of the universe.

They don't recognize moral law. They can't even see it; a dense materialism has covered their organs of spiritual perception.

It is their philosophy that success justifies any means the state may employ; that the foulest methods are sanctified and made sweet by victory.

They believe themselves divinely appointed in this world to put "Deutschland über alles."

That conquest is good title. That if you seize and take away the machinery from the factories of an invaded nation you can then arrest and deport the workmen for the crime of idleness.

That if you first take the people's food until they cry for bread, you may then lessen the demand by carrying their young and able-bodied women into ominous and unreporting silence.

That the benign laws of the "spurious verrenkt" make Prussia the residuary legatee.

That it is amusing to submerge a U-boat when captured merchant sailors are locked outside upon the deck.

That chlorine gas is a proper weapon if the wind is blowing towards France but that it is contrary to international law if it is blowing toward Germany.

That they may crucify a Canadian if they take him captive but that if he captures them the cry of "Kamerad" puts him on his honor.

That to break bread with a man is the safest prelude to his assassination, and that an ambassador's honorable exemption from police visitation makes him an ideal "fence."

America must be made to realize this code. She must be shown the map of Frederick the Great and then its black encroachment upon the surrounding nations that one by one have been "assimilated."

She must learn that it is the Prussian instinct not to visit, but to overrun; to extend a sinister greeting with the left hand and with the right hand to spread the gangrene of bribery and betrayal, occupation and indemnity.

Alaska's Great Frost Depth.

The depth of permanently frozen soil in polar and subpolar regions is a subject of perennial interest, concerning which few data are available. In numerous excavations made in placer mining in Alaska the ground is permanently frozen to great depths, begining 18 inches or 2 feet below the surface.

In the Klondike, according to the geological survey, the alluvium is frozen to a depth of about 200 feet. At Fairbanks permanent ground frost has been found at many places to a depth of more than 200 feet, and the deepest shaft there penetrated 318 feet of frozen alluvium. In Seward peninsula many holes in permanently frozen alluvium are more than 75 feet deep and one is nearly 200 feet deep.

On the other hand, some ground in this region is not frozen, for reasons not understood. According to Dr. A. H. Brooks, when the moss is stripped from the soil the ground thaws, and with open cut mining or cultivation the upper level of permanent ground frost seems gradually to descend. It is therefore believed that the ground frost is a survival of a climate colder than the present one and is preserved by the nonconducting mat of moss and other vegetation.—Scientific American.

Big Coal Order for Poor.

New York, June 12.—Jonathan P. Day, commissioner of markets, announced that after inspection of a coal mine near Scranton, Pa., he was prepared to sign a contract for the delivery of 300,000 tons of anthracite to be stored here to meet any possible fuel famine next winter and to be sold by the city particularly to the poor virtually at cost. Asserting that he had offers of 500,000 tons more, Mr. Day said that 300,000 tons "will be sufficient to tide over a condition such as existed last winter."

OLD GOTHIC BARN

Great Structures in England Similar to Village Churches.

Unapproachable in Dignity; Beautiful as Cathedrals; No Ostentation of the Builder's Art.

The great old stone barns of England, dating many of them, from the fourteenth century, are, comparatively speaking, little known to the general public, says the Christian Science Monitor. The beautiful architecture to be found in the English village churches has received its full meed of appreciation, and so, though possibly in a slightly less degree, have the fine old manor houses which dot the countryside and provide a most interesting study in the local variations which occur in the generally prevailing style at any given period. The barns, however, have been rather neglected, and literature on the subject is practically nonexistent.

Yet the barn is intimately bound up with the history of the neighborhood in which it stands, and where, for possibly nearly 500 years, it has been fulfilling practically the same eminently important functions, with little change, for the benefit of the folk in its neighborhood. The methods of the farmer may vary, but the general routine of the countryside goes on, much the same, century after century, and the great barns still stand ready to house the people's food as they have done, summer and winter, for so many hundred years.

These old Gothic barns are very dignified and very beautiful buildings, comparable in some ways to the village churches whose contemporaries they are, and if they are less ornate, they are, in their simplicity, hardly less imposing. Indeed, some people would give the balance in favor of the barns in this matter.

It is by no means always an easy matter to tell the precise date of these barns at first sight, but sometimes there is a little carving, a bit of tracery or a finial which will supply the clue, or possibly again, the form of a buttress may afford an indication; but fortunately there are generally local records to which access may be had containing details of the origin and foundation of the barns.

Among the famous fourteenth century barns of England are those at Glastonbury, Wells and Pilton in Somersetshire, Great Coxwell in Berkshire and Abbotsbury in Dorsetshire. These are all what may be described as barns of the first magnitude; great cruciform buildings which may well vie in size and dignity with many churches. Of the barn at Great Coxwell, William Morris said that it was "unapproachable in its dignity, as beautiful as a cathedral, yet with no ostentation of the builder's art," and he always declared that it was one of the finest buildings in England or anywhere else.

Hospital Unit Complete.

Base hospital unit No. 13, composed of students, alumni and former students of the University of Chicago, as well as doctors and nurses from the Presbyterian hospital of Chicago, and enlisted men from the universities of Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Beloit college and Northwestern university, is now in the South. Of this unit the personnel is complete, and as it now stands it has 152 enlisted men, 100 field nurses, 26 doctors and six civilian secretaries.

Send Wounded Irishmen Home.

In future all Irishmen serving with the British army who are wounded or sick are to be sent back to Erin to complete their recovery as soon as they can be moved. An army council instruction states that patients whose homes are in Ireland are, as far as practicable, to be treated in hospitals in the vicinity of their homes. This applies to all Irishmen, whether serving in English, Irish or Scottish units. The instruction applies only to men whose homes are in Ireland.

JUDGE ELLIOTT (formerly Associate Justice Minnesota Supreme Court): "I know from personal observation while I was connected with the Court that Mr. Caswell is qualified for the position."

SENATOR MANLEY L. FOSSEN: "Because of Mr. Caswell's special qualifications for the place I am supporting him."

GEORGE W. PETERSON (formerly County Attorney Todd County and later Assistant Attorney General): "The work of Mr. Caswell has been accurate and painstaking. He has been faithful to the duties of his office."

Do Something Better Than the Other Fellow---

and ADVERTISE

Advertising cannot accomplish the impossible any more than barren ground can yield rich crop.

But how advertising does make things hum when the product and proposition are right, the men and methods above board, when there's an honest purpose and earnest effort from bundle boy to general manager to serve efficiency, to deal honestly, to sell good goods, to price fairly.

Oil up the machinery of your business, imbue your organization with the spirit of true service, make your business worthy of the good will, the confidence, the patronage of the people.

In this fertile field then sow the seed of advertising and it will bring forth abundant crops in increased business and augmented prestige:

Your store news in the Dispatch will be read in practically every home in Brainerd and vicinity every evening.

REGISTERED MEN JOIN MARINES

Information has just reached the office of Postmaster H. P. Dunn from Provost Marshall General Crowder to the effect that men registered at the last registration date, June 5, 1918, can be accepted for voluntary enlistment in the Marine Corps without waiting for classification by the local boards.

These men must bring their registration cards and a certificate from their local board stating that they have the consent of the board to enlist in the Marine Corps.

It has been stated that these recently registered men will be included in the early draft quotas immediately after registration, from which it follows that they should apply for enlistment immediately unless they prefer to wait for the draft.

The Minnesota district is leading the entire recruiting service in the number of applicants from postmaster stations.

100 VOLUNTEERS FOR FARM WORK

Business and Professional Men Asked to Assist Farmer by Day's Work Haying, Etc.

FARM WANTS ARE LISTED
Chamber of Commerce Created Special Committee to Take up This Important Work

Wanted, by the Farm Labor Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, 100 volunteers, be they skilled in farm work, business men willing to assist the farmers in harvesting their crops, or professional men who believe they still know how to "cock up" hay, drive a hay rake or mower or shock oats and barley.

The Chamber recently created a special committee to take up this important work, naming the secretary as chairman. E. A. Colquhoun, W. C. Cobb and Peter Stendal have been selected as his assistants and a conference will be held in the near future to outline definite plans to secure the desired help.

List Farm Wants.
Mr. Colquhoun has been delegated to list the farmers requiring help, number of men they want, when and for what line of work and Mr. Stendal will assist him in this particular feature.

Supt. W. C. Cobb will enlist the assistance of school boys and students during the vacation period and F. T. Lincoln will sound business and professional men, urging them to volunteer a day themselves or agree to send a man out into the fields when needed. Farmers are ready to pay the going wages for help, the idea being simply to secure it when most needed.

Other Cities.

In Fergus Falls, the mayor, city officials, many business men and others have volunteered their services for one day. Why not in Brainerd? asks the secretary.

Here is a fine opportunity for business men to show a practical interest in the farmer and in the nation's call to save the crops for "the boys over there." Mr. Lincoln asks "who will be the first business or professional man, or others not engaged in farm work, to volunteer?"

An Opportunity

The list is now open and it's a fine opportunity for the men of this city to come to the front and help out. One day's work on the farm will not affect the business or professional life of any man in this city and the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and Mr. Colquhoun have volunteered to "do their bit" in the hay field when called, thus setting others an example. Volunteers are urged to notify the secretary and their names will be published as they come in.

Do it Now.

The time is short, haying will be here soon after July 4 and the committee urges prompt action. "Send in your name, get into the game, work up a sweat for one day and help garner in the crops, is the committee's last word."

Hannan and Gaskill will be the Brainerd battery. Cariveau, new gun on the team for Brainerd fans, will be at short and Benda will hold second. Bush will not be able to play tonight.

"Red" Frank, former Brainerd and Hibbing pitcher, will play that position for Long Prairie. Others in the lineup will be "Helme" Thieges, "Football" Maynard, Canfield, Schuchmacher, making a formidable array. A large turn out this evening will net a goodly sum for the Red Cross. Attend the game and aid the Red Cross.

Hand That Rocks the Boat.

The underlying philosophy of most bitter criticism is this: The hand that rocks the boat rules the world. It is not an inextinguishable basis for criticism, considering the stupidity and folly of the particular world administration we have inherited, but it has the disadvantage of indicating a whole class and may just as well proceed from that transiency which made a man a critic in the first place, as from any ordered or reasonable consideration.—New Republic.

This report shows the necessity of the drive now on as some communities have done nothing during May.

ACADEMIC DISCOURSE

Judson King of Washington, D. C., Talks to Small House at the Gardner Auditorium

Billed as secretary of the "Government Popular Society," Judson King of Washington, D. C., gave an academic discourse on "Good Government in Minnesota," in which he covered in general terms his views of iniquities in national fabric and scored big newspapers in severe terms, said he was a newspaper man himself and had given up the calling because it prostituted a man's talents.

He claimed big business held the club which made the little fellows jump.

The speaker was introduced by Charles Hazen, president of the Trades & Labor Assembly.

In answer to questions he described Townley's career as a farmer. He broke ground with a tractor, made some money in flax, started a company near Beach, N. D., and it blew up because it did not rain. He claimed Townley had been sued and persecuted. He said Townley was personally honest and a genius.

Mr. King covered phases of the telegraphers' strike and scored big business for not accepting the proffer of Judge Taft and colleagues of the war board.

The object of the Popular Government League was to secure better forms of government. The principle of commission government can be applied to the state of Minnesota, said he, centralizing executive power and placing blame where needed.

One need not belong to the Non-Partisan league to know who might want the job of business manager of the state of Minnesota, presumably Townley.

He scored the Prussian, declared the faith of the world rested in the democracy of Woodrow Wilson, dilated upon the expiring divine right of kings.

"What's the matter with you people, don't you applaud in this town?" he asked petulantly. "Didn't I make myself clear?"

He detailed achievements claimed to have been accomplished by the non-party league in North Dakota; referred to LaFollette's speech as a "fool speech," classed the Bismarck Tribune and Grand Forks Herald as contemptible sheets; said the Associated Press and United Press side-stepped some of the news; praised Charles Lindbergh who had served state and nation he said, but failed to state what C. A.'s achievements were. Said nothing about Lindbergh's book printed after the war.

Said the non-partisans were publishing a German edition.

After the meeting some ten or more held a round table meeting with King.

HOLD COMMUNITY PICNIC JULY 4TH

Hon. W. J. Murphy of Wheaton to be Principal Speaker at Mission Lake Picnic

MISSION LAKE FARMERS HOSTS

Site for Picnic is on the East Shore of Mission Lake and a Very Beautiful Place

Hon. J. W. Murphy of Wheaton, is to be the principal speaker at the community picnic, which is to be held July 4th at Mission Lake. County Agent E. A. Colquhoun, at the request of the Farm Bureau directors, secured Mr. Murphy for the occasion.

Mr. Murphy was one of the organizers of the West Central Minnesota Development association and has been president of the All-Minnesota Development association. He is also president of the America First association in Minnesota. He is an attorney at Wheaton and is actively engaged in the management of the large farm holdings which he has. F. E. Balmer, state county agent leader, says that Mr. Murphy is a real patriot and considers that Crow Wing county is very fortunate to have an opportunity to hear him.

The Mission Lake Farmers' club are preparing to entertain the largest crowd that has ever participated in a community picnic in Crow Wing county. The fact that the meeting is to be held July 4th will give all classes of people an opportunity to attend.

The site for the picnic is on the east shore of Mission lake and is a very beautiful place. At their meeting on Tuesday the club members and others interested in the affair joined in clearing the ground for autos and other purposes. Signs are to be placed directing the route to the place of the picnic. Sports of various kinds are to be arranged and will be announced later.

The picnic this year is to differ from those of other years in that every one will be expected to provide for their own eats and drinks. The club will not attempt to put up lunches or to sell anything on the grounds. However, concessions will be granted to private parties wishing to erect a sales stand. L. P. Hall of Bay Lake is to arrange for the entertainment of the speaker. H. W. Linnemann will have charge of the sports. Anyone wishing to offer prizes for any of the contests should communicate with Mr. Linnemann.

The program is to be under the auspices of the Crow Wing County Farm Bureau, the Mission Lake Farmers' Club acting as hosts.

Don't Be Operated Upon

The cutting out of malignant or diseased organ will not remove the cause. You can doubtless call to mind some friend who has been operated upon for some disorder. They were apparently better for a while but as time went on they were worse off than they were before the operation. You can never remove the cause by treating the effect. The Chiropractor does not heal, treat or cure. Most

Dollar

We know you get more mileage from Firestone Cord Tires than from others. That's why we recommend them. Here are the features that we find give the extra mileage:

Numerous walls of stout cords. Pure gum separates cords and prevents friction. Extra thick cushion layer of pure gum under tread absorbs shocks and protects inner body of tire. Tough, thick, resilient tread.

Bead, which holds tire in rim, strongly reinforced, as is also the side wall. Hinge or bending point of tire thrown high where strain has least effect. Result, Most Miles per Dollar.

Firestone Red Tubes stand up to the hardest driving for the longest time. Antimony cure and laminated construction are two of the important reasons. And be sure to see the Firestone Cord section when you come in.

LOBSTER NOW LUXURY

Food Has Passed Beyond the Reach of the Poorer People.

Should Catch Small Lobster and Leave Larger Ones to Breed, Is Opinion Expressed by Expert.

The lobster has passed beyond the reach of the poor and has become a luxury only to be enjoyed by the rich. Every year the price of lobsters advances a few points, and even at the highest price offered it is difficult to obtain them. From Massachusetts comes the information that were it not for the catches in Maine and Nova Scotia, lobsters could not be had in Massachusetts, for the waters of that state have been fished out. In 1888, so the Boston Transcript says, 1,740,850 lobsters of legal size were caught in Massachusetts. In 1914, only 16,138 were taken there. The opinion seems to be gaining ground in Massachusetts that a mistake has been made in dealing with the lobster industry. The small lobster has been protected, while the large lobster, which is the one which produces an enormous quantity of young, has been taken. This it is held by some, is wrong. We should catch the small lobster, so it is argued, and leave the bigger ones to breed.

There seems to be some virtue in this contention, because in spite of the lobster hatching plants maintained by the federal government fewer lobsters are being taken each year, while the demand for them is continually increasing. This, of course, accounts for the high prices. It is also claimed that in planting lobster fry the federal agents have made serious blunders. The fry have been liberated in places where they have been subjected to the attacks of other fish, and few of the lobsters hatched in the government plants have ever attained a size where they could look after themselves. The experienced fishermen of the Maine coast have frequently called attention to the mistakes which were being made in lobster propagation and preservation, but as frequently happens in the making of laws, the opinions of men who know something about lobsters and their habits have been ignored, and the theorists have been the only ones consulted.

If the federal government should put a closed time on lobsters for several years and arrange with the Canadian government to do the same thing, it is reasonable to suppose that the lobsters would increase and this industry would regain something of the magnitude it has lost. But we have no idea that such a plan will be adopted. It would be strenuously opposed by the dealers, who now make large profits in the business, and probably by the fishermen also, who have considerable capital tied up in their fishing gear. What has happened in Massachusetts, where few lobsters are now being taken, must eventually take place in Maine, and unless some radical step is adopted the time is not far away when even as a luxury the lobster will become so scarce as to be beyond the reach of everyone save the epicurean of the plutocratic class.—Portland Press.

Fish Eggs.

The cod is estimated to yield 45,000,000 eggs each season. As many as 8,000,000, 9,000,000 and even 9,500,000 eggs have been found in the roe of a single cod. An eel was caught in Scotland some years ago which contained upward of 10,000,000 eggs. This, however, would appear to have been an exceptional find, and it is generally admitted that the cod is more prolific than any other fish. Though not equaling the cod, many kinds of fish are exceedingly prolific. More than 30,000 eggs have been counted in a herring, 38,000 in a smelt, 1,000,000 in a sole, 1,120,000 in a roach, 3,000,000 in a sturgeon, 342,000 in a carp, 383,000 in a tench, 546,000 in a mackerel, 992,000 in a perch, and 1,357,000 in a flounder. The oyster is also very prolific. It has been ascertained by recent observation that in the liquor of their shells small oysters can be seen by aid of the microscope—120 in the space of an inch, covered with shells, and swimming actively about. A herring weighing six or seven ounces is provided with about 30,000 eggs. It has been estimated that in three years a single pair of herrings would produce 154,000,000. Buffon calculated that if a pair of herrings could be left to breed and multiply undisturbed for a period of 20 years they would yield an amount of fish equal in bulk to the globe.—London Tit-Bits.

An Aid to Memory.

The stranger in camp pointed to a stack of army hats and caps on a shelf behind the desk in the "Y" hut. Said he to the secretary:

"I didn't know you ran a clothing store."

"We don't," replied the secretary. "Stick around a minute and you'll understand."

Before the minute had ended, a lad in khaki came in.

"Got a baseball to lend me?" he asked the man at the desk.

"Sure thing."

The secretary produced a ball from a box under the counter, the soldier seized it, left his hat in pawn and rushed away bareheaded toward the playing field.

"We tried keeping books on our athletic equipment at first," said the secretary. "But this way is simpler and more effective. We never run out of baseballs any more."

TWO MORE SHIPS SUNK

German Submarine Destroys Norwegian Vessels.

Raider Stops Craft Off Virginia Coast and Danish Steamer Rescues Crew.

New York, June 13.—The Vindegen and Henrik Land, two Norwegian steamships, have been sunk by a German submarine about 200 miles east of Cape Charles, Va.

This brings the total of vessels sunk by U-boats since they began their campaign in these waters to 18. Their crews, totalling 68 men, were brought here by a Danish steamship which picked them up at sea after they had been set adrift in their small boats.

Copper Cargo Transferred.

Eighty tons of copper ingots, part of the cargo of the Vindegen, were taken aboard the U-boat before the steamer was sunk by means of bombs. The vessel was stopped by the submarine and the crew was obliged to unload the copper into the ship's small boats and transfer it to the U-boat. Then the small boats were taken in tow until the Henrik Land was sighted.

The Vindegen was bound here from Norfolk for New York. Stopped by the submarine, the crew of this ship was likewise ordered into small boats and the ship sent to the bottom by bombs. The two crews were taken in tow and when the Danish vessel was sighted, according to their story, the submarine cut them adrift and submerged.

BUILDING EXCEEDS LOSSES

American Shipyards Are Winning Race With Submarines.

Washington, June 13.—Since German submarines began their raids off the Atlantic coast May 25, the output of shipyards building vessels for the shipping board has exceeded the sinkings of American ships by more than 100,000 deadweight tons.

The production in the interval has been 21 vessels, totalling 130,642 tons. Excluding the vessels salvaged, the submarines destroyed 10 American ships, totalling 26,000 tons.

Six ships were completed in the first week of June. They totalled 24,430 tons. In the same time there were 14 launchings, totalling 75,470.

URGES LOYALTY DAY

Governor Burnquist Issues Statement of Indorsement.

Calls on People of State to Join Those of Foreign Birth in Renewing Fealty.

St. Paul, June 13.—Governor J. A. A. Burnquist, in response to the request of the Committee on Public Information for co-operation in the celebration of Loyalty Day, July 4, by citizens of foreign birth, has issued a statement indorsing the movement. The statement declared:

In response to a petition of foreign born citizens of the United States, announcing their intention of celebrating July 4 as Loyalty day, to demonstrate their love for this country and its cause, President Wilson has issued a statement heartily approving their intention.

This plan meets with my full indorsement. I sincerely hope the people of this state will make Independence day the occasion of a renewal of their pledges of loyalty to this country, and that our foreign born citizens will take a most prominent part in these celebrations.

Most of our people of foreign birth and have co-operated with the government and shown themselves intensely loyal in every way in this war, and I believe they will be glad to give public expression to their love for their adopted country, through these celebrations on Independence day.

At the same time, I believe our native born citizens should on that day in some appropriate way, show their appreciation of the aid given our country by foreign loyal citizens.

CONSTITUTION IS STRAINED FOR WAR

CONGRESSMEN RECOGNIZE THAT IT CAN'T BE STRICTLY CONSTRUED JUST NOW.

IS SUSPENDED, SAYS LEWIS

American Aviators Abroad Doing Well With Materials Supplied Them—Senator Thomas Is Abused for Insisting on Economy.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington.—It has become evident to legislators that they cannot follow old precedents and keep in the straight and narrow path of strict construction of the constitution in framing laws to meet the exigencies of a great war. The attempts to make war legislation conform to all the traditions of the government have proved futile. The habit of pointing to precedent is so strong, however, that the course which Lincoln took during the Civil war has often been cited in the debates, principally for the purpose of showing the present day "strict constructionists" that war necessitates the stretching of the constitution, or maybe suspending it for a time.

For the most part, the members of both senate and house have accepted, in practice at least, the idea that was advanced by Senator Lewis of Illinois several months ago that the constitution was suspended during war times. Quite a number of men seemed somewhat aghast at that idea, but as one necessary measure followed another it became apparent that in order to successfully carry on the war it is necessary to stifle constitutional scruples and to take the shortest cut toward winning the war.

Although there has been so much said about the "falling down" of the altar program for the war, it appears that American airmen are doing good duty with such material as they have on the western front. It is true they are not using very many American machines made wholly in this country, but they have proved their efficiency with the machines which have been furnished by the French and English, and American machines assembled in France and England. It is possibly true that we were a little slow in getting started, but in all probability it will be found long before cold weather sets in that the American airmen are equal to any in the world, and that means a great deal in view of what the Frenchmen, the Englishmen, the Canadians and the Italians have done in the air.

Discussion on a very important bill was going on in the senate not long ago when no quorum was suggested and the roll was called. Finally two more senators than were necessary to make the quorum had answered to their names and Senator Gallinger took the floor. "Now," said the New Hampshire senator, "that the usual force has been enacted of senators being called in one door to leave immediately either through the same door or some other door, I am going to occupy two or three minutes and make some observations on this measure."

And that is generally what happens. Day after day senators will step inside the door, answer to their names, and immediately turn around and go out.

Senator Thomas of Colorado is about the only real economist left in congress. There are quite a number of men who talk economy, but Thomas is the only one who consistently votes for economy whenever there is an opportunity. Like all men of that character, he is the subject of a great deal of abuse and particularly on account of his opposition to a pension bill which will add $40,000,000 to the present expenses of the government. Senator Thomas made an interesting speech on this subject not long ago in which he gave the senate some information about criticisms passed upon him by Union soldiers for opposing the pension increases and by Confederate soldiers for opposing the bill granting pensions to ex-Confederates. It is to be expected that the reformer who makes himself felt will be the victim of critics.

Senator Brandegee of Connecticut doesn't in the least admire the modern tendency toward governmental "uplift." He looks with scorn on the boards and committees and bureaus that are established for the purpose of telling people how to live. Vocational education is one bugbear of the Connecticut senator. "After a man has had a common school education," he said to the senate, "and can read the newspapers and magazines, if he cannot dig the soil or run a lathe in a mill without some vocational education artist visiting him every day to see how he is getting along and giving him Christian and friendly advice, why then we have got the kind of paternal government that the sooner we get rid of the better the country will be off. It is not the kind of government the fathers founded; it is a mollycoddle kind of institution that will denature the whole American people."

WHY $2.50 WHEAT PLAN WAS KILLED

ADMINISTRATION, REPRESENTED BY MR. HOOVER, THOUGHT IT UNWISE AT THIS TIME.

SMOOTH WORKING OF DRAFT

Old Timer Compares It With Confusion Resulting From the System Followed in 1861, When Substitutes Could Be Purchased.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington.—According to the votes it would appear that the farmers are not so strong in the house of representatives as in the senate. It was supposed that the proposition for $2.50 wheat which was placed in the agricultural appropriation bill by a senate amendment was a test of the popularity of the tillers of the soil. The senate put in its amendment by a good, large majority, and the house rejected it by a good, strong vote.

But between the time when the senate voted for $2.50 wheat and the time that the house voted against $2.50 wheat there was a sufficient space to enable a great power in this government to exercise authority and influence. The administration, as represented by Food Administrator Hoover, did not believe that it was wise at this time to fix a minimum price for wheat at $2.50 a bushel by law, instead of $2.20, which had been fixed by the food administration. The house of representatives, much more than the senate, is inclined to carry out the desires of the administration on all legislation affecting the war.

An old man was commenting on the smoothness and speed with which the draft law is working. "It's not like the draft of sixty-one," he said. "If you were drafted then you had the alternative of paying some other man to go in your place. This substituting, as it was called, was supervised by the government. When a Washington man was called he went to the provost marshal's office and if he wanted to send a substitute a soldier took him to a large hall near by, rented by the government, where several hundred men were sitting or standing about. These were the fellows who wished to hire out as substitutes. The drafted man picked out the one he wanted, and paid him whatever was the current price. I gave my substitute $655—$650 was the market value at that time, and I told him to get a drink with the $5. Before the war was over, some of the drafted men, especially in small towns, were paying $1,500 for substitutes. It caused a hundred times more trouble and confusion than the system in use now."

The increase in the number of "efficiency experts" of late years goes as little sympathy from Senator Reed of Missouri as does the spread of black rust or pneumonia or any other plague that torments mankind.

"I have seen a great many specimens of these gentlemen," said Reed in the senate, "who go about on earth reforming the business of other men—those efficiency experts. For the most part they are men who cannot get a decent job in a responsible firm. They are like expert witnesses in a case in court—they return an opinion according to the side that employs them."

The particular cause of Reed's remark was a reference to the report of a committee of so-called "efficiency experts" which recommended a policy different from that favored by an experienced government official.

It is said that the late Senator Broussard of Louisiana has more relatives than any other man in public life. Sometimes it has been asserted that a goodly portion of the French population of Louisiana were in one way or another related to him. He had two nicknames. One was "Cusan Bob," and the other "Cajean Bob." These titles are given as pronounced by the friends of the late Senator. The first meant that he was "Cousin Bob," to many people and the other that he was one of the descendants of the famous Acadians that were driven out of French Canada when the English took possession of that region more than 150 years ago.

Seniority is one of the strongest unwritten laws of congress. It is one of the laws that is seldom transgressed, and then only under extraordinary circumstances. If the chairman of a committee in the senate dies, the next man becomes his successor. This is now true of the house as well as the senate, since the house has adopted the principle of electing committees, which is the practice long followed in the senate. Senators and representatives recognize that there is no other way of determining who shall be preferred in the matter of committee assignments and particularly of the chairmanships.

This idea of seniority is so strong that it is altogether probable that if Champ Clark had gone to the senate as the successor of the late Senator Stone, Claude Kitchin of North Carolina, now chairman of the ways and means committee, would have been made speaker. Of course it is possible that Kitchin would prefer his present place to that of speaker, save for the difference in salary, which is $4,500 a year.

WILL EXPEND $946,293,000

Railway Budgets for Improvements are Unusually Large.

Washington, June 13.—In announcing classified items of the $946,293,000 railway capital expenditure budgets for this year, the railroad administration disclosed that it will pursue a liberal policy in construction of new switch tracks, industrial sidings, shop buildings and freight stations at terminals, but will cut expenditures for new passenger depots, office buildings and other enterprises not contributing immediately to war demands.

The total to be spent for improvements is $445,639,000, and for equipment, $492,417,000. This is approximately three times as much as railroads have spent for these purposes annually heretofore.

Roosevelt Frowns on Boom.

Indianapolis, June 13.—Interrupted in his speech here by cries of "Roosevelt in 1920," Theodore Roosevelt stopped speaking until the audience was silent and said: "Friends, this is an American meeting at which we are discussing Americanism and all it means—preparedness and putting the war over. We must stand by every public servant as he develops and uses the strength of the country. We should stand against him precisely to the degree that he fails to develop and use the war strength of the country."

French Plan to Thwart Spies.

London, June 13.—The French military authorities have taken an important step with the object of checking operations of enemy spies. General Dubell, military governor of Paris, has issued orders forbidding the sending abroad of newspapers and periodicals containing advertisements. Italy began to block out advertisements six months ago after the Austro-German offensive. It is suspected certain advertisements in French or Italian newspapers might be used for espionage purposes.

SELF DEFENSE

DEFEAT BACKACHE AND KIDNEY TROUBLE WITH ANURIC.

Many people in Minnesota have suffered from rheumatism and kidney troubles and have found Anuric to be the most successful remedy to overcome these painful and dangerous ailments.

The lucky persons are those who have suffered, but who are now well because they heeded Nature's warning signal in time to correct their trouble with that wonderful new discovery of Dr. Pierce's called "Anuric." You should promptly heed these warnings, some of which are dizzy spells, backache, irregularity of the urine or the painful twinges of rheumatism, sciatica or lumbago. To delay may make possible the dangerous forms of kidney disease, such as stone in the bladder.

To overcome these distressing conditions take plenty of exercise in the open air, avoid a heavy meat diet, drink freely of water and at each meal take Anuric (double strength).

All pharmacists sell Anuric for 60c; or send Dr. V. M. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 10c for trial package.

Boy River, Minn.—"I have used Dr. Pierce's medicines with good results in my family for years.

Last winter I was taken with La Grippe and it left me run down and with pains in my hips and back. I took different medicines without getting any benefit. At last I sent and got some Anuric and took it and am feeling well and doing a good day's work. When I commenced taking the Anuric Tablets I could hardly get out of bed, felt as though a knife were sticking in my back."
